A pipe dream of a game!

Now your game playing has really gone down the tubes!

It has been hailed as one of the most fiendishly addictive games ever! It's the one that the reviewers are raving over as the freshest electronic challenge they've seen in ages. In its simplest form the job is to build a network of pipes that can outrun the sludge that starts running through the pipes you've laid. But don't be deceived. Although it is simple, Pipemania is maddeningly addictive. For the pipes come in a whole range of shapes and sizes and are laid down in random order by the computer. You have to try and time things so that the right piece is laid at the right time.

One wrong turn and the sludge will catch up with you and end the game.

It works like this. At the start of the game your screen is a grid of squares. When the timer starts the countdown you must place the sections of pipe into each one of the grid squares to form a pipeline. Pipe sections appear in two dispensers on the left side of the screen. Some go around corners, others are straight, yet more are one-way sections where the sludge can only go in one direction. When the timer gets to zero the tap opens and the sludge starts to flood the pipes you've laid. Now comes the tough bit. You've got to outrun the sludge by laying down new sections of pipe faster than ever to reach the target number of squares before the sludge flows through. The higher the level, the higher the target. Start at the basic level, then work your way up into expert mode. Here things get even more hectic as the liquid moves faster and more complex pipe pieces start to appear.

There's slow motion practice to help you get the hang of things so that eventually you may be able to work your way through the entire 36 levels, each with their own tantalising variations. We've played it. And we can assure you that Pipemania scores top marks in the addiction stakes.

The ultimate collection of five of Epyx's greatest hits

Astounding value for money.

If you don't already know, Epyx is one of the US's most famous software houses celebrated for its incredible sporting simulations.

Now is your chance to grab them all in one attractive compilation that will give you hours of first-class sporting fun.

There's 4x4 Off-Road Racing, The Games Winter Edition, California Games, Street Sports Basketball, and Impossible Mission II.

In Impossible Mission II you're the secret agent who has to try to save the world from Elvin Atombinder.

Street Sports Basketball is the great and gritty basketball simulation played in a parking lot, playground, the suburbs and a back alley. In 4x4 Off Road Racing there are terrific tumbles on the toughest of terrains! California Games is a challenge of skills in roller skating, BMX'ing, Foot Bagging, and Frisbee throwing. The Games is the perfect simulation of the top winter Olympic events: figure skating, downhill skiing, cross country skiing, ski jump, and slalom.

Sword-swishing excitement from the acrobatic avenger!

With its digitised sound and wondrous graphics, Strider is the frenetic chop-em-up game that will demand every ounce of combat concentration.

This acrobatic super-soldier is equipped with a fearsome sword that he wields with ferocious effect.

Strider's mission begins as he is dropped into Red Square. Immediately the battle starts as enemy guards try and pick him off. If he's quick Strider will run, jump, tumble, and roll his way out of danger. All the while his terrible sword despatches those KGB unfortunates who get in his way.

Over the roof tops and domes he fights until he breaks through to the other combat levels. There are the snow-capped scenes in Siberia, the fight against the spears and poisoned arrows of the tribes of the Lowlands, then back to Moscow to battle with the Grand Master himself.

Our great Gaul games double!

A fabulous recreation of a typical Tin Tin tale! Opening with one of the most epic title sequences we've ever seen on computer, Tin Tin on the Moon is like several games in one. As the craft speeds on its way to the moon, you must steer it so that it avoids the asteroids that are hurtling towards it while picking up energy and fuel pods that come hurtling towards you. Only by picking up the requisite number of pods will you survive to the second sequence on board the rocket itself where Captain Boris has stowed away determined to sabotage the mission. At last comes the moon landing. As the moon looms closer and closer you'll have to adjust the speed and slow the descent.

Frantic fun with our second great Infogrammes offering!

Oh dear, that funny French fugitive Bobo is back behind bars at the notorious Inzeeslammer prison. And while life is pretty tough for him, it's entertaining for you. Why? Because Bobo depends on you to get him through the day; starting with helping him serve soup to the other prisoners.

Roll up for the funniest cartoon-style game ever!

Save the circus from Freddy's fiendish sabotage.

When a bunch of hardened reviewers start falling about in helpless laughter at a new game, you can bet there is something special afoot. There is, and this is it. The wonderful cartoon-style arcade game that is hysterical as any Loony Tune cartoon show you've ever seen. You've got to raise enough money to save the circus from a takeover by fiendish Freddy who plans to build an office block on the Big Top site. The better the circus acts, the more money is raised.

There's the High Dive, the Juggling, Trapeze, Knife Throwing, Tightrope Walk and Human Cannonball. You'll be asked to compete in every one of them and you'll need all your arcade gaming skills to succeed. That's because you'll need to reckon on Fiendish Freddy sabotaging each and every event through the most devious means imaginable. You never know when he's going to appear.

Operation Thunderbolt – a bold mission to rescue the hostages

When it comes to simulated warfare, they don't come much rougher and tougher than Operation Thunderbolt, the incredible follow-up to 'Operation Wolf'. This is the multi-stage mission to rescue hostages from a guerilla camp somewhere in the Middle East. In a daring raid you'll shoot your way through the camp while searching out the prisoners. Meanwhile those bad guys are throwing everything they've got at you; grenades, knives, machine gun bullets; you name it. This is no holiday camp and there's barely a split-second between attacks. Once you've rescued the hostages the fighting's not over. Not by a long shot. You've got to get them safely out of the camp to a remote airfield where the rescue plane is waiting to fly everyone to safety.

Level 9 does it again!

It's Level 9's latest adventure. It's Scapeghost, a ghostly detective tale that takes you into a hundred locations. Yet this game has a strange twist. For you are a ghost, betrayed to a criminal gang and blamed for your own death when in fact they escaped with a hostage. Now you're back in your old haunts with a mission to clear your name. This time you've come equipped with detective skills and psychic powers. You'll see your own funeral, visit your own grave, and walk among villains and associates who don't realise you're there. With one tap of the keyboard you'll be transported into an ethereal world where reality is suspended. As the ghost, you'll need to ask hundreds of questions, solve dozens of multi-person puzzles that require the co-operation of several characters, and issue dozens of commands to the worldly inhabitants who seek to exploit the fact that you're no longer around. You've got three nights to round up the gangsters and clear your name.

Strap yourself in tight – this is nearly for real

Experience the thrill of flying some of the world's most advanced combat aircraft.

Design your own missions!

If you've ever marvelled at the power and danger of flying a jet fighter, your fantasies are about to come true! Fighter Bomber is your opportunity to experience at first hand the thrill of flying some of the world's most advanced strike/attack aircraft. To add to the authenticity it has been based on Strategic Air Command's annual bombing competition high above the military ranges of South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming and Montana. Using advanced vector graphics programming, you view the world from an infinite number of points to gain any view you like of the perspectives.

Each aircraft featured in Fighter Bomber responds just like the real thing. There are different controls and instruments panels closely modelled on the type of plane you are 'flying' – the F-15E Strike Eagle, F-4E Phantom, F-111F Aardvaark, Tornado, Saab Viggen, or Soviet MIF-27 Flogger. You select the kind of enemy aircraft you will encounter – F-14 Tom Cat, F-16 Falcon, F-5 Tiger, Mig-29, Su-27, Mirage 2000, Mig-31. Remember each type will respond differently just as in real aerial combat. Even when (and if) you've managed to complete all the pre-set missions, there's still more to come. Fighter Bomber allows you to design your own missions with point-and-click ease. You'll select the air base to operate from, work out targets, and decide on armaments.

A new type of computer game

Play to win or just enjoy the patterns.

It's one of the strangest, and prettiest, games to come our way in a long time. Imagine a sub-atomic world where particles can be brought into existence, accelerate, collide and be destroyed. Where strange elastic bonds can form between these particles and complex force fields set up to block their paths.

That's the world of E-Motion. And when you first play it you'll understand why the E stands for Einstein. For this is the kind of metaphysical experience that transcends normal computerised ball games.

You have control of a central ball used to push coloured spheres around. As their paths increase so does their speed until they actually explode. Pushing together the debris forms new spheres with different properties. And so it goes on until all the spheres have been destroyed by each other. There are 50 levels to complete and five secret bonuses to be discovered. Over to you Einstein!

Interactive tennis with startling 3D animation

Play the matches based on real tournaments.

Fancy yourself as a Boris Becker or Navratilova? Would you make it to top seed on the international tennis circuit? Now you can find out. The Wimbledon lawn tennis championships may be over for another year. But that won't stop you playing them whenever you want. Sensible Software's International 3D Tennis puts you on the international tennis circuit where big prize money can be won in all the world's great pro-tennis tournaments.

As for the animation; well, forget about simple bat and ball games. Remarkable new 3D animation techniques give you an authentic view of the court similar to that you'll have seen on the big televised matches. Of course those digitised sound effects add to the authenticity of the game play.

You can view the game from dozens of angles. Play on grass, clay, carpet and cement courses. Naturally each surface determines the speed and accuracy of the gameplay. But you have complete control over the direction and speed of your shots. Learn to adjust your topspin and backhand balls to catch your computer or human opponent off guard.

With four player ability levels – amateur, semi-pro, pro, and ace – you're bound to find a pace that suits your style.

Choose which of the 22 tournaments you want to enter to play a full tennis season against world class competition. The aim is to earn a million dollars. Will you do it? New balls please!

Can you crack the secrets of the Ninjas?

They were the most deadly fighters in olden Japan. The Ninjas moved with stealth and cunning that made them invisible to their enemies. Now the adventures of these shadow warriors will rage inside your Commodore and on your monitor in one of the best martial arts arcade games yet.

Based on the fabulous coin-op game, Shadow Warriors requires you to master the co-ordination and dexterity of the Ninja's as you help them in their fights against low-life opponents of a modern American city.

Set against stunning backdrops that recapture the seediness of inner city scenes, Shadow Warriors requires that you master all the Ninja secrets of combat: the Phoenix backflip, the triple blow, the flying neck throw, hong kick and much more.

It's an arsenal of acrobatic antics that keep the Ninja's one step ahead of their enemies. The fighting takes place in back alleys, along the sidewalks, and along the street.

There's no mercy asked for and none given. When you're a Shadow Warrior you fight it out to the finish!
